

From: Tucker Carlson [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Call me pls
Date: August 28, 2015 at 4:44 AM
To: hbider [REDACTED]

Are you kidding? I'm glad you called. What they did was repulsive and immoral and I hope I wrecked their day. I certainly tried to. Fuck them.

Let me know if there's any way we can help.

On Aug 28, 2015, at 12:28 AM, [REDACTED] wrote:

I'm sorry for even calling you. I know I put you in a difficult position- and upon reflection as you're friend I should have never done that. I was just so upset that they went to my house and confronted Finnegan. I've been in DE the last two months sleeping in my nephew's bed, and it's hard to even get up in the morning sometimes.

Eric provided all the information on background that proves this was not me - not my IP address- not my credit card #, not my birthdate etc...but they still come anyway. I can take the hit- I'll be fine, but the notion that under any circumstance whether ordered to by an editor or not that someone would confront my 16 year old daughter at my home is just wrong.

Regardless, I should have never put you in this position- you have your own family all of whom I love, and your own business and defending me is not something a friend should ask a friend to do. Tell Susie we love her and miss you both very much.

Sent from my iPhone

On Aug 27, 2015, at 10:30 PM, Tucker Carlson <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Just lost my shit on the editor over there. He claims the London office forced him to do it. He's a pig either way, and I told him so.

This whole thing is disgusting and awful and it breaks my heart that you all have to go through it. I'm really sorry. Let me know if there's anything Susie and I can do to help.

On Aug 27, 2015, at 8:54 PM, Robert Biden <[REDACTED]> wrote:

[REDACTED]

Sent from my iPhone